LENTEN REFLECTION: In the Azores during Holy Week and Easter, Sweet Breads, called Flores (flowers) are baked with eggs in them. There is usually an egg for each member of the family. As the breads bake, their aroma fills the house, highlighting the anticipation of those who await this mouth watering treat. After Church, on Easter Sunday, family members gather around the kitchen table to feast on this Traditional Easter Breakfast. Children especially, love to dig out the eggs and eat them. The eggs are usually folded into the bread in odd numbers; their placement resemble petals on a flower opening to the sun.
